

Editors'
CHOICE

Hotel Raphael, Paris

THERE IS A WONDERFUL GEM AT 17, Avenue Kléber in Paris. Hotel Raphael (www.rafael-hotel.com) is a small, intimate, cozy hotel that is privately owned and, therefore, meticulously kept. The ground floor restaurant, La Salle à Manger, is delightful, and there is also an enchanting terrace on the roof, Les Jardins Plein Ciel, where you can dine outside and view the Eiffel Tower as well as the rest of Paris.

The State Suite and the Raphael Suite are superb for VIPs and every room in the hotel is modern, yet has old world elegance and a coziness found in very few other hotels around the world.

The Raphael is most certainly a hotel worth a visit. ●

Clockwise: The elegant Hotel Raphael; What could be better than champagne and a view? The rooftop dining terrace and Arc de Triomphe; Hand-painted bathroom; the Raphael suite; the beautifully furnished lobby

