

LEADERS

"The best executive is the one who has sense enough to pick good people to do what he wants done, and self-restraint to keep from meddling with them while they do it."
— Theodore Roosevelt

On the Cover
In this issue, we present interviews held with a broad range of business and other private sector leaders. In many instances, these leaders are strategically rethinking their entity's business purpose for the benefit of all of its stakeholders so as to achieve successful growth within a constantly changing business and geopolitical global environment.

Focusing on purpose helps to determine those opportunities that should be aggressively addressed and whose impact should be more clearly identified. It will sharpen an organization's ability to compete on a global scale and in a socially responsible and appropriately accountable way.
