

Henry O. Dormann LEADERS' Founder, Chairman and Editor-in-Chief, 1932-2018

Henry O. Dormann was a man of unique talents and achievements. He has served as the Founder and first Executive Director of the Library of Presidential Papers; President of the United States Technical Developments Company, a division of U.S. Banknote Corporation; Chairman of the Board of the National Enquirer, the largest circulated newspaper in the United States; President and Editor-in-Chief of SIPA News Service; President and Editor-in-Chief of Holiday magazine; Chairman of the Haitian Development Corporation; Chairman of Sabador, Inc., Liberia; Chairman of the New York Assembly Council on Economic Development; Chairman of the International Board of Industrial Advisors; and Chairman and Editor-in-Chief of LEADERS Magazine.

A life-long student of leaders who consumed several biographies and autobiographies each week, Mr. Dormann personally knew many of the world's leaders in government, business, labor, the arts and education. Much of his work as Chairman and Editor-in-Chief of LEADERS Magazine involved traveling around the world to meet and interview these extraordinary people. He came to know many world leaders well, sharing confidences, ideas and good conversation.

A unique man interested in the unusual and the great things of the world, Henry Dormann, never a cynic, was proud of the human race and its accomplishments. He was a positive man, feeling that if societies can laugh at their faults and concentrate on positive achievements, the world, gradually, will become a happier place.

Mr. Dormann also appeared as host of the weekly NBC television programs Friends & Neighbors and Around Town. He was also featured daily, prior to NBC's Today Show, giving his "thought of the day."

His sense of humor, creativity and inspired guidance will be greatly missed.
