

The St. Regis New York

BUILT BY COLONEL JOHN JACOB ASTOR IN 1904, THE ST. REGIS NEW YORK (www.stregisnewyork.com) is located in the heart of Midtown Manhattan. Each of the 229 guest rooms and suites feature high ceilings, carved crown moldings and wainscoting, Waterford crystal chandeliers, and marble bathtubs. Recognized for unparalleled bespoke service, the signature St. Regis butlers are available 24 hours a day to attend to guests' every wish and desire.

For world-class travelers familiar with only the very best, The St. Regis New York boasts one of a kind designer and specialty suites, and recently debuted the Dior Suite at the end of 2011. With views of Fifth Avenue and 55th Street, the one-bedroom suite features the traditional Dior palette in a serene and sophisticated range of muted, neutral colors including subtle and warm grays and shades of pink and white with whimsical accents and glamorous statement pieces positioned throughout the space. The suite's sumptuous 1,700 square feet includes a comfortable living room with decorative antique fireplace, one full bath and one half bath, a king bed, and a dining room that seats eight with spectacular views of Central Park. It can also be converted to a two-bedroom suite offering 2,300 square feet of space, which affords an additional full bath and half bath, king bed, and living room.

While sophisticated in style, the legendary St. Regis New York offers modern services such as E-Butler, an innovative PDA application allowing visitors to interact with the hotel's butlers and concierge before and during their stays. ●

Views of Central Park from the Dior Suite (left); the Dior Suite living area (below)

