

World's Best Suites

Four Seasons Hotel New York

Views at dusk from the Ty Warner Suite (above); Royal Suite living area (below left); a Presidential Suite living area (below right)

"I am honored that iconic visionaries created one of the most revered Penthouses in the world with views like no other, but if my staff doesn't differentiate and customize the guests' experiences, then we don't win. Winning is how we deliver that particular product and get it right for that customer."

-Christoph Schmidinger, General Manager

PERFECTLY POSITIONED BETWEEN RENOWNED PARK AND MADISON AVENUES, THE FORBES Five Star, AAA Diamond Four Seasons New York (fourseasons.com/newyorkfs) offers guests a selection of 368 oversized guest rooms, including 63 suites. This I. M. Pei-designed architectural icon features stunning views and a gracious style, and boasts an urban renewal spa and fitness center run by L.RAPHAEL; the famous bar known for its martinis, TY Lounge; and The Garden Restaurant under the reign of Executive Chef John Johnson. The sophisticated traveler will appreciate taking his visit up a notch with one-of-a-kind specialty suites: the Royal Suite, two Presidential Suites, and for the ultimate stay, the Ty Warner Penthouse Suite.

Situated on the private 32nd floor, the unique 2,000-square-foot Royal Three-Bedroom Suite offers expansive, panoramic views of the city and Central Park from large picture windows throughout the space. The suite's classic, elegant interior boasts a residential feel and gives the sense of visiting a luxurious private Manhattan apartment. The suite has two bedrooms and an adjoining library that can function as a third bedroom, and also features a spacious living room with a terrace overlooking the city. The suite includes three full oversize marble bathrooms, each with a deep soaking tub, a separate glass-enclosed shower, two sinks, and a private dressing area.

The Presidential Suites, located on the 51st floor of the hotel, are one-of-a-kind signature suites offering spectacular views of the city and Central Park from floor-to-ceiling bay windows and furnished balconies.

Accessible via private elevator, the suite living areas feature working marble gas fireplaces, satinwood game tables, original oil paintings, and plasma televisions. Surround sound is provided throughout the suites. Presidential Suite 5101 features bronze, bone, and brown tones, and embossed mocha leather square panels adorn the walls of the library. Presidential Suite 5102 features yellow, gold, and cashew-colored tones and cabinets with pearlized metallic lacquer in the living room, which boasts a baby grand piano. The full marble bathroom in each suite has a deep soaking tub, separate glass-enclosed shower, two sinks with rock crystal handles, a plasma television, and a private changing room.

The crown jewel of Manhattan's tallest hotel and one of the most expensive suites in the world, the Ty Warner Penthouse Suite, which cost $50 million to build, is a collaboration among owner Ty Warner, designer Peter Marino, and architect I. M. Pei who came out of retirement to join in the creation of America's most exclusive accommodation. With cantilevered glass balconies and floor-to-ceiling bay windows set beneath 25-foot cathedral ceilings, the 4,300-square-foot Ty Warner Penthouse Suite offers a breathtaking 360-degree view of all of Manhattan. It features a library, living room, master bedroom, and spa. Each area boasts a unique design aesthetic with vaulted ceilings and skylights. The suite also provides a Zen garden, breakfast room, powder room, dressing room, and master bathroom. Guests will appreciate specially commissioned decor and one-of-a-kind furniture, boasting semi-precious stone surfaces, hand-applied straw marquetry, hand-painted lacquer panels, and custom-designed fabrics woven with threads of platinum, gold, and silver. In addition, the unlimited use of a chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce is available to guests of the suite, as is a personal trainer, 24/7 personal butler services, and a full range of spa treatments. ●

