

The Scarlet Huntington

San Francisco

THE SCARLET HUNTINGTON (thescarlethotels.com/sf) upholds a tradition of high standards and gracious service. The majority of the former Huntington Hotel's devoted staff – many of whom have worked at the property for more than 20 years – greets guests with the same personalized service and attention that has graced the property with its iconic red façade for years. This San Francisco icon weaves together a vibrant Singapore Straits Chinese heritage with the high-fashion luxury of Nob Hill. The Scarlet Huntington is an uninhibited haven in one of San Francisco's most alluring neighborhoods. Originally constructed as an apartment building in 1924 with high ceilings and crown molding, the property has been recreated as a chic and discerningly different boutique hotel with modern luxuries and comforts, but still gives guests the cozy feeling of staying at a friend's upscale home. The heart of The Scarlet Huntington also remains, welcoming guests with the highest levels of service, warmth, and hospitality for which it has always been known.

The hotel's one-bedroom suites are an ideal choice for travelers who want to take their stay up a notch. Guests can luxuriate in 715 square feet of welcome living space with this large one-bedroom suite featuring separate living and dining areas. Adorned with the finest fabrics consisting of Imperial yellow, gold, and black with silk-like draperies in hues of mink and trimmed in fuchsia, this suite is the perfect urban escape. Visitors can rejuvenate and relax in the luxurious bathrooms that are artfully designed with plush finishes and fixtures that feature bathing rooms with tub and separate shower with choice of showerheads, utilizing Kohler's rain shower system.

The Scarlet Huntington is an ideal choice to keep any guest content while visiting the City by the Bay. ●

The living area and bathroom of a one-bedroom suite at The Scarlet Huntington