

Editors' CHOICE

The Jefferson Washington, D.C.

RATED THIS YEAR'S BEST BOUTIQUE CITY hotel in the U.S., The Jefferson, Washington, D.C. has presided over the corner of 16th and M streets since 1923 and remains the top choice for business and leisure travelers alike. The 95-room, independent hotel is both European and Washingtonian in style and positioned in a premiere location, just steps from the White House, U.S. Capitol, The Kennedy Center, and more.

Home to Washington, D.C.'s only Forbes Five Star Restaurant, Plume, The Jefferson also offers rich dining options from their upscale lounge and cocktail bar, Quill, to their breakfast and lunch options at The Greenhouse. The Jefferson goes to great lengths to provide luxurious amenities to every guest, including 24-hour in-room dining and butler service, a Book Room with a collection of books based on the passions of Thomas Jefferson, complimentary Wi-Fi in all guest rooms, meeting rooms, and public areas, as well as same-day laundry and dry-cleaning services.

Premier guests seeking the highest level of luxury need to look no further than the Thomas Jefferson and Martha Jefferson presidential suites, both commanding elite views of the district. With nearly 2,000 square feet of refined luxury, the Thomas Jefferson Suite boasts five private Juliet balconies, a master bedroom featuring a King-size bed adorned with custom, fine European linens, a grand salon with walnut parquet flooring that leads guests to a formal dining room with a gas fireplace, and an intimate receiving area that connects to a private pantry complete with Wolf appliances, a microwave, and a refrigerator. Accommodating large parties while offering presidential privacy, the suite connects to an additional Deluxe King and is adjacent to another one-bedroom Deluxe Suite.

Juxtaposed with the Thomas Jefferson Suite is the Martha Jefferson Suite, designed with pale, Tiffany-inspired blue accents and a soft palette of creams and grays – the idyllic choice for romantics. Paying homage to both the Washingtonian and European styles, the suite is decorated with magnificent light fixtures and chandeliers, and features a gas fireplace, an additional powder room, an intimate dining room for four, a large soaking tub for two with intricate mosaic tiling, and a canopied, custom-made king bed. The Martha Jefferson Suite offers an entry foyer with original historic artwork inspired by Thomas Jefferson's loves: wine, books, music, and horticulture.

Executive Suites at The Jefferson are ideal whether traveling for business or leisure. At 760 square feet, each suite features an entry foyer with unique decor inspired by Thomas Jefferson, and a private sleeping room with a separate, spacious parlor, typically used for small meetings. After a long day of networking with Washington, D.C.'s most influential private and public officials, guests can decompress in their Italian marble bathroom, which features a separate shower and soaking tub, before resting in a stately, king-sized bed made with the finest Italian linens.

Named the number-two hotel in the U.S. by U.S. News & World Report, the number-one city hotel overall.*

Clockwise from top left: Thomas Jefferson Suite parlor; Martha Jefferson Suite parlor; Executive Suite parlor

Clockwise from top left: Thomas Jefferson Suite bedroom; Thomas Jefferson Suite dining room; Thomas Jefferson Suite office; Martha Jefferson Suite bedroom; Martha Jefferson Suite dining area; Executive Suite bedroom

